ALLERGEN POLICY

Our company is committed to controlling the receipt, storage, handling and delivery of allergen-containing products.

Some foods and food ingredients or their components can cause severe allergic reactions including anaphylaxis.

Allergens defined by the FSANZ Food Code

- Cereals containing gluten and their products;
- Crustacea and products thereof;
- Egg and products thereof;
- Fish and products thereof;
- Milk and products thereof;
- Peanuts and products thereof;
- Soybeans and products thereof;
- Tree nuts and products thereof;
- Lupins and products thereof;
- Sesame and products thereof;
- Sulphite preservatives must also be declared on the label if added at 10 (or more) milligrams per kilogram of food.
- Royal jelly is a bee product that can cause severe allergic reactions. In rare cases it can cause death, especially in asthma and allergy sufferers. Food containing royal jelly must have a warning statement.

Anaphylaxis and sensitivities are a major concern to our company and our clients and are always to be controlled to the best of our ability. It is the responsibility of each employee to be aware of allergen containing products and follow procedures and policies to ensure control of allergens.
